

Campus Voice Competition

Gouri Mehra of Class XI G, participated in Campus Voice, a contest where students from schools and colleges all over India, are allowed to submit pieces that touch upon subjects for which they feel strongly- politics, governance, diplomacy, healthcare etc. The competition is organised by The Print news organisation, founded by Shekhar Gupta.

Gouri' s article about the pink tax secured her the second position in the competition, with her article being published on The Print's website. The pink tax refers to a supplementary price that people using feminine products are unknowingly made to pay.

The link to the article can be found below:

<https://theprint.in/campus-voice/it-is-time-for-our-community-to-come-together-against-divisive-pink-tax/670094/>