Protect The Protectors

After World War II, Corona virus has proved to have deleterious effects on all of mankind. However as the pandemic has deepened, the worst of the crisis has brought the best out in humanity. Amidst this suffering we still have plenty of reasons to be cheerful. The commendable deed of Shounak Malhotra , a student of class 10 H of Sanskrit school is one such ray of sunshine. He realized that mere symbols or words of reassurance are not enough in this time of catastrophe. In an admirable manner, he single handedly conceptualized a well-outlined game-plan to provide resources to certain segments of the government and remarkably implemented it with more serious action to fight against this epidemic.

Coved 19 established the importance of social distancing and personal hygiene. It also gave a new task to our police department, of enforcing these novel requirements .It highlighted the shortage of related materials like sanitizers, masks, PIPs , ventilators etc. Not only among the general public, but also among the police and health officials.

To address this Shounak Malhotra of class X H of Sanskriti School, single handedly initiated the effort of providing sanitizers to police stations of Delhi, 187 in number. He, crowd sourced the funds, identified a producer in Madhya Pradesh who supplied the wares at a discount, got 200 cans of 5 litres each of sanitizers prepared at Samayapur Badi and with the help of police headquarters got them distributed among the police stations. There by proving not only his care and concern but his organizational abilities. Now he has moved on to the next phase of this plan. Sanskrit school congratulates and lauds the efforts of Shounak Malhotra.
